Description:

The incredible true story of one woman's journey to relocate the place inside herself where strength, hope, and personal truth reside. After Hurricane Katrina, Alice Anderson has returned home to assess the damage to her beloved Mississippi coastline and the once-immaculate home she'd carefully cultivated for her husband, Dr. Liam Rivers, one of the community's highly respected doctors. But in the wake of this natural disaster, a more terrifying challenge emerges as Liam's mental health spirals out of control, culminating in a violent attack at knifepoint, from which Alice is saved by their three-year-old son. Afraid for her life, she flees with her children. What ensues is an epic battle—emotional, psychological, spiritual, and legal—for her children’s welfare, for self-preservation, and ultimately for redemption. It’s an unrelenting battle that persists even as life goes on, finally coming full circle when the same son who saved Alice ten years before endures an eerily-familiar violent encounter at his father’s hands. Yet even as she confronts the harsh realities of high-powered Southern lawyers and an inadequate legal system, Alice forges a new life with her blossoming children and an ultimate reclamation of her true self.

Stunning. I forgot to make dinner, to return emails, turn on the lights until it was too dark to read because I could not tear myself away from the pages of this book. Anderson writes intimately about the abuse she survived, as a daughter, as a wife, as a woman navigating the horribly crappy family courts of the Mississippi trying to keep her children away from the husband who tried to kill her. Juxtaposed against the destruction left after Hurricane Katrina, this memoir is an absolutely chilling portrayal of marital abuse, small town court systems founded/operated on patriarchy, and mental illness/addiction. Anderson writes gorgeous sentences, weaves the narrative together in ways that are at times hypnotic. I was breathless, outraged, I fell in love along with her, I felt her heartbreaks, her love for her sweet three, her resilience. Highly recommend.
